

Volunteering to be a Wagon Master

Have you ever wondered why a chapter's rallies seem to be held in the same geographic area? Well, that is because the same people, all of the time, volunteer to be wagon masters and they plan their rallies close to where they live, as they should. Now that the South Central Chapter includes the states of Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee, Kentucky, South Carolina, North Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia, Delaware, Maryland, and the District of Columbia, it is time for new and diverse wagon masters. To keep our chapter healthy, we need wagon masters, to volunteer, to show the rest of us the beauty and highlights of their area of the country.

The Club's By Laws require 2 rallies per year for a chapter to be recognized as functional. How about, we hold 3 or 4 rallies a year. I would love for someone to show me the states north and east of Georgia. To help you decide to become a wagon master, I have attached a Wagon Master Guide (overview) to this email. Try it once. It is like ice cream, if you have never tried it how do you know you won't love it. I look forward to attending your rally.
